(WBNG) -- The focus for many local campaigns is on this November's election, but it appears an investigator with the Broome County District Attorney's Office is thinking ahead.

Jason Ellis, Chief Investigator under District Attorney Steve Cornwell, is gathering support for the 2018 Republican primary and general election for Broome County Sheriff.

According to the Ellis Campaign's Facebook page, there will be an announcement event on November 18 at the Sons of Italy in Endicott.

David Harder, the current Broome County Sheriff, told 12 News he is not retiring or stepping down, and will make his future plans public soon.
